ORIGINAL POETRY.

☞ Some wag will please accept my thanks for the following idea, which he has prosed upon the reverse side of a bank bill, but which I now immortalize in verse.

A DILEMMA.

Our worthy Temperance Doctors tell us
That we should be hale, hearty fellows—
That we should never die,
Could we but screw our courage up
To drink less brandy,—never sup
'Blue ruin,' or 'Red eye.'

'Ardents,' say they, are 'sickening stuff,
Deadly, rank poison, and enough
To tear one's maw to fritters!
They cramp the wits—the system rack,
And lay us shortly on our back—
Or make us beastly critters.'

Well, what doth Doctor J say?
Oh, he is quite the other way!
'Tis' quoth the sage, 'a pity
That folks such water are obliged to drink;
Why, 'tis scarce fit to rince a sink—
A nuisance in the city.'

'T'is so impure,' he says, 'that dogs
Turn up their noses, and the hogs
Scarce condescend to wash
Their pretty feet in't. And, indeed,
'Tis of vile fevers but the seed—
Poor, flinty, useless trash.'

Quere:—since people seem to think
That soul and body need some drink
In order to grow fatter?—
How, worthy doctors, would it do
In such emergency—to mix the two,
And so, sirs, end the matter?

OUR PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

Mr Editor—I have been pleased to learn by a recent notice in the public prints, that the School Committee have increased the compensation of the Grammar and Writing Masters in our public schools, to fifteen hundred dollars per annum. This is as it should be. It ought ever to be the object of the School Committee to employ competent teachers in our schools, and to pay them well. No man should be employed as an instructer of our youth, who is not deserving of a decent support from the City Treasury. And this leads me to remark, that in my humble judgment, the School Committee, in their endeavors to do justice to the principal Masters in our schools, have overlooked their duty to those teachers who hold subordinate stations in them. I refer to the sub-masters.—These gentlemen, though possessed nominally of less responsibility, yet have a task to perform, almost, if not quite, as arduous as the principal instructers. The compensation allowed to the ushers, is, however, less than one half of the pay given to the head masters—being only six hundred dollars per annum. This sum, it seems to me, is not a fair remuneration for the services for which it is given. At the present time, the teachers, if single men, can barely secure a comfortable support on such a salary. Much less, can men who have families, decently and respectably subsist on such limited means. Such being the case, it will readily be seen, that the situation of an usher in our public schools, does not present sufficient motives to induce men of talents to desire to be employed in them—or, if so engaged, to take that interest in the proficiency of the scholars, which is desirable.

I hope, Mr Editor, that the suggestions above made, will induce our respectable School Committee to do the thing that is just and honest toward those teachers in our schools whose case has been referred to. Let the subject be but carefully examined and I have no doubt the hints I have ventured to make in relation to it, will appear reasonable and proper. And if the grievances spoken of do exist, I cannot but desire that it may be speedily removed. H. G.

Doctors Pretensions.—The all-sufficient professors of the healing art in our own favored land, are not slower in compiling their grandiloquent advertisements, than in compounding their infallible remedies; but even they fall short of the following unique card of a noble practitioner, who styles himself "Baron de Catanea," and appears to hail last from Portugal. It was dropped in a bar-room by a son of the sea, lately returned from a foreign voyage:—

IN THE HOSPITAL OF THE MARINE.

Strial of Janellas Verdes No. 50

Near the House of Marquez de Pombal, lodges Baronde Catanea, Chirurgeon and Medicus, being him self who have cured seck peoples in the course of the almost past contagion of Colora Morbus, and this in a wery fue minutes uppon persons transported upon boars in the struts to the Hospital. He has the destinet and high honour to be profeged in his Profession, by his Majestg Imperial e Royal D. JOAO VI. the last king of Portugal, and by the General Fysicum of this Kingdom, together he is honoured with the protection of their Majestg de King of Napoles, and Sardinha, e by the great cures he has done and yet does, in all qualitus of sors, Canorous, Escrofles, and finally en all Scorbutual Flinesses, in the humane and unspeakable indisposition wich he cures with the most perfect securiety, and in a werg short proportional time.

Flirting and Eating.—However unsentimental certain young romantic misses may consider eating, it appears that the Spanish belles, the most accomplished coquettes in Europe, actually gormandize! A resident English officer of Madrid says—

It is a serious undertaking to invite a few female friends to repose, and slake their thirst, after a summer evening's stroll in the Prado. They are pleasant, and chatty, and thirsty; and then one must fiddle with something in the shape of solids, cakes, biscuits, or what not. I have known military Lotharios of my acquaintance leave the half of their month's pay in the grips of the waiters, for the pleasure of one snug evening. Still it must be said that the ladies of Madrid are, by no means, to be compared in franqueza (off-handedness) to their sisters of Malaga, not one of whom has any objection, or would make the least difficulty, in dispatching dozen upon dozen, of the little round, plump, inviting figs, not to mention ices, yemas (yolks of eggs conserved), and other pastimes. An ounce (three pounds five shillings) is a mere trifle to put in one's pocket when gallantly inclined.

This puts one in mind of the quarrel between the lovers in the English ballad, whose Sunday walk ends—

"When in she looks
To a pastry-cook's
And wanted me to treat her,
Says I, my love, my honey,
I've lots of love
As you may prove,
But I have got no money."

Bennett of the New York Herald, after calling many of our distinguished men infidels, says "We ourself are a firm and enthusiastic believer in the glorious gospel of Jesus Christ, but we believe in it on a new principle."

"In the state of things at present existing in this country, my personal wishes are, to withdraw my name from the place it occupies before the public."

DANIEL WEBSTER.

"A vote of the Senate of the United States has attached to my name a disgrace which I am fully convinced no time or no efforts of mine will ever be able to efface."—Extract from Gen. Harrison's Letter dated July 16, 1816. See Niles' Reg., Vol. 10, page 424.

Public Lands—Speculators, &c.—The Atlas does not deny the fact that Daniel Webster has borrowed large sums of money from the deposite banks, for the purpose of speculating in the public lands. It was not quite safe to deny a fact so extensively known. But the Atlas attempts to justify Mr Webster, and turns its artillery upon the Postmaster General, whom it most liberally pronounces guilty, because neither he nor his friends have thought proper to contradict the thousand falsehoods which are daily circulated for political effect by a set of presses whom nobody believes. But to show the country once again what sort of stuff the opposition editors are made of, we have applied to Mr Kendall for a statement of facts, and are authorized by him to state—

That he has never borrowed a dollar from a deposite, or any other bank, to be vested in public lands, or for any other purpose of speculation, in his life:

That he has never owed but two of the deposite banks, and has borrowed only from one since the removal of the deposites:

That he has borrowed from the Bank of the Metropolis several small sums at different times, and owed it $300 at the time of the investigation last winter, which was increased to $500 when he set out on his late excursion to the north; but he now has a deposite in that bank more than sufficient to pay the debt:

And that since he has been Postmaster General, he has declined all propositions for entering into any purchases or speculations in public lands, however tempting, not because he doubts his legal right to do so, and to borrow money to carry them on, but because he has found ample employment for all his mental as well as physical powers in the administration of the important department with which he has been entrusted.

He does not deny that he owns lands, heretofore purchased of the public, in accordance with the laws, by means honestly acquired.

Does the Atlas ask more? Let it lay before its readers those facts, which defy investigation or contradiction, and then answer for its own favorite:

Did not Mr Webster, while the question of re-chartering the Bank of the United States was before Congress, of which he was a member, borrow large sums of money from that institution?

Did not Mr Webster, last winter, while the question of re-chartering the District banks was before Congress, borrow from one of them (and a deposite bank too) a large sum of money, for the purpose of speculating in public lands?

Now, Mr. Atlas, come up to "the scratch." You charge Mr Kendall with corruption, upon the false supposition that the deposite banks have done him favors for favors received. How will you maintain Mr Webster's purity, when he actually received favors from banks which were at the very time asking him for favors at the public expense—favors which he showed himself very ready to bestow?

The truth is, this is an old game of the tory whigs to protect themselves. So they formerly charged Mr. Kendall with speculating in stocks by the aid of the deposite banks, who, in fact, never bought and sold a share of stock in his life, while the very men who reiterated the charge, as has since been seen, were among the most shameless stock gamblers that modern banking has bred and fostered.—Globe.

For the Boston Morning Post.

Mr Editor—An unusual degree of excitement has been produced by the proceedings of the inhabitants of Roxbury, relative to the views entertained by the County Commissioners respecting the meaning and spirit of the License Laws, and the arbitrary manner in which they refused to grant licenses to the individuals approbated by the proper authorities of said town. This excitement has been continued and increased by the unmerited and abusive censure, which certain sapient editors, and their coadjutors in reforming the morals of the community, have unsparingly bestowed on those who believe the selectmen of Roxbury better qualified to determine what the public good within their own precints requires, than any individuals residing at a distance. The proceedings of the town meeting have been made a butt of ridicule, against which every witling considers himself at liberty to discharge his small arrows. The appellations of "rumites," "dram-drinkers," "anti-temperance" men, and "defenders of the natural rights of rum-sellers and soakers," have been indiscriminately applied, as terms of reproach, to all who took an active part on that occasion. Desperate must be that cause which requires the use of such weapons in its defence, and despicable must be the men using them against their equals, if not superiors, in integrity and temperance. That person is ignorant of human nature who has yet to learn that opprobrious epithets are very inefficient arguments to convince the community that every course of procedure, which he deems expedient, is consequently lawful, and not an infringement of the rights of others. We fear that the unwise efforts of our anti-license friends to traduce the motives and degrade the character of those who differ from them in opinion with respect to the amount of power conferred on the County Commissioners, will have a tendency to retard, rather than advance, the cause which they so strenuously advocate. The moral characters of the gentlemen who requested the selectmen to call a meeting of the town, are too well known to require any argument or statement of facts to prove them incapable, on any occasion, of "forgetting that they are under any moral responsibilities."

The number of upright, honorable, and high-minded gentlemen, present at that meeting, and opposed to the doings of the County Commissioners, would greatly exceed the entire amount of the anti-license party in Roxbury. The character of the former would not suffer by a comparison with that of the latter, for sincerity of intention, obedience to the laws, and the power of determining the difference between right and wrong. How base and contemptible, then, must be the men who would endeavor to make the public believe that the citizens of Roxbury, at their late town meeting, were influenced only by mean and mercenary motives.

I know not the authors of the libellous and incendiary articles from which the preceding quotations were selected. If the tree may be known by its fruit, their moral sense must be either deficient or vitiated. Their object, evidently, was to debase the intentions, misrepresent the openly avowed opinions, and blacken the character of every one who refuses to yield assent to their dictational dogmas, and presumes to be governed in his actions by the decisions of his reason and the dictates of his conscience. The object and the measures devised for its attainment are in perfect keeping, and equally disgraceful to their authors.

When an individual assumes airs of high morality for abstaining from the performance of certain actions, which are not prohibited by the laws of God or man, whilst at the same time he is guilty of violating other well known duties, and, perhaps, of cherishing some secret sin, reason would lead us to believe that he is disposed to "Condemn those things he don't incline to,

That he may practice those he has a mind to,"

if he deems it necessary, in order to support his pretensions.

sions to superior virtue, and turn the eye of inquiry from his failings, to denounce and proscribe as immoral, irresponsible, and unchristian, all those who will not subscribe to his theory of ethics; for my own part, I can pity his weakness, and treat with silent contempt, his base efforts, so long as he comprises his slanders and denunciations within the circle in which his and my character are known. But if, in the plenitude of his impudence, arrogance and hypocrisy, he proclaims, through the medium of the press his misrepresentations of the opinions and actions of his opponents, justice seems to require that his baseness should be exposed and his statements refuted. The London Age of August 4, says that Bunn has "secured to himself one of the greatest cards that has lately been played in London:"—viz., Mr. FORREST, the celebrated American tragedian. Mr Willis Jones, it says, has engaged to produce Mr Forrest at one of the prinsipal London theatres, together with the original plays in which he made fame and fortune in America. Bunn gives the use of Drury Lane theatre (of which he is again the lessee) and if Forrest take with a London audience, he is to have a given number of nights throughout the season.

Mode of resisting the attacks of Dogs.—We find the following advice in De Berenger's Helps and Hints. "When you are attacked by dogs, look at them with your face from between your opened legs, holding the skirts away, and running at them thus backwards, growling angrily; most dogs seeing so strange an animal, the head at the heels, the eyes below the mouth, &c., are so dismayed, that with their tails between their legs, they are glad to scamper away, some even howling with affright."

The Philadelphia Gazette, in speaking of the engravings in the Token this year, says—

"There is one picture in the Token, of a child, with its shoulders shrugged up through the higher part of its little frock, which is almost a carricature. The shading of the neck seems to be done with charcoal; and the face resembles a visage chiseled from a turnip. In our copy, there is no name at the bottom; proving that if the artist has not taste, he has at least some discretion."

☞ Our concluding remarks upon the Token will appear to-morrow.

Art of Puffing.—The New York Herald says, "Our Literati manufacture their own characters by puffing and endorsing each other, as the directors of a rotten bank delude the public into a high opinion of their wealth. John puffs James, James puffs William, William, Washington, and Washington John, thus going round the circle, 'never ending never tiring.'"

The King of Siam is about to present to the Jardin des Plantes, at Paris, a white elephant, as a return for the extreme kindness which the Siamese twins met with from the people of the French capital during their late exhibitions. The white elephant is said not to be a separate species of the class, but what is called an albino. It has, however, the peculiarity of having natural-colored eyes, and can bear the alterations of light and darkness without inconvenience. It is an animal beyond all price in India. In the time of the ancient Persians it was treated with divine honors.

We think his majesty ought to send a small one to Boston, for the twins were treated very politely here, and well paid.

The amount of worldly grandeur.—On the night when the remains of the late Mr Rothschild were landed from the steam-packet, at the London Custom House Quay, it was discovered that the hearse was too small to admit the case which contained them. After considerable delay, a common fish-van, standing in Thames street, was hired, in which was deposited all that was mortal of the eminent capitalist.

Hunting an Heiress.—A late Austrian Charge d'Affaires at St. James's, the Baron de N——, is said to have paid his addresses to one of the daughters of the late Mr Rothschild, previous to the departure of the former for Vienna, but the great capitalist objected to the intended offer.

A letter from Fort Brooke, Florida, says—

"We have had two Indians in confinement since the 1st September, taken a few days previously from a fishery at the mouth of the bay, where they had been employed as fishermen, but had some intercourse with the hostiles as we learned from their wives. They (the prisoners) state that Miconopy and most of the Seminoles, are near the cape preparing canoes and arrowroot for the next campaign, which they are resolved shall be carried on in the Everglades.

The prisoners also state that they have a great number sick, the measles having broken out amongst them; that their clothes are nearly worn out, and that they suffer exceedingly. This is Indian news such as has been communicated to us, and I presume it may be relied upon.

Eulogy on the late President Madison.—The arrangements of the City Government for rendering public honors to the memory of JAMES MADISON, the immediate successor of Mr Jefferson, as President of the United States, were fully carried into effect yesterday. A long procession, formed by the Municipal Authorities, Governor Everett and suite, the officers of the State and U. S. Governments, invited guests, and a number of incorporated societies, was formed in the Doric Hall of the State House. The Escort, consisting of six Light Companies—the Mechanic Riflemen, City Guards, Winslow Blues, Washington Light Infantry, Fusiliers, and Rifle Rangers, all under the command of Col. Amasa G. Smith—were drawn up in front of the State House, at 10 o'clock, to receive the Procession, which, preceded by the Brigade Band, moved a few minutes before 11. The Procession proceeded down Park street, through Tremont, Court, and on the North side of City Hall, down State street; and countermarching, returned by the North side of the Hall, through Washington and Milk streets, to Federal street, where the Escort halted, and opened right and left to preserve a passage through which the Procession could pass into the Odeon, to hear the Eulogy to be pronounced by the Hon. JOHN Q. ADAMS, Ex-President of the United States. As soon as the rear of the Procession had entered the Odeon, the Escort was dismissed. The several companies were in excellent order, and their services were highly necessary on account of the dense crowd which had assembled in the immediate vicinity of the Odeon, and heavily pressed upon the line of the Procession. As soon as the Escort had retired, the rush into the Odeon was extreme; and in less than five minutes it was absolutely impossible to obtain a seat in any part of it—even to the fourth gallery. Before the arrival of the Procession the ladies had secured the entire seats of the 2d and 3d tiers, and hardly left the gentlemen the poor privilege of standing up between the boxes.

The services were commenced by a Voluntary on the Organ, by Mr Webb. A Prayer was then made by the Rev. Dr. Lowell, after which Mr Benjamin's Ode was sung by the full choir of the Boston Academy of Music.

About twelve minutes before 12 o'clock, Mr Adams commenced his Eulogy, which occupied two hours and thirty-three minutes in the delivery. Owing in part to his voice, but more, perhaps, to the continual stir kept up by individuals passing in and out, to get air, but very little of his discourse was heard beyond the choir. To accommodate himself to the light, also, he had to read his manuscript with his left side presented to the audience, during almost the whole time.

The first portion of the Eulogy was devoted to a sketch of Mr Madison's parentage, birth, and education.

In the next stage, Mr Madison's labors in the formation of the Constitution of the United States—his position with respect to Washington's administration, concerning the rupture with France in the time of the Directory—his opinion upon the Alien and Sedition Laws—his political agreement and confidential relations with Mr Jefferson, and the principal measures of his own administration, were fully discussed, in terms of general approbation, but in a moderate tone towards those who had opposed the measures of Jefferson's and Madison's administrations.

In the third and last portion of the Eulogy he rapidly traced Mr Madison's life, after retiring from the Presidency, especially with reference to his speeches in the late Convention of Virginia for amending the State Constitution. Mr Adams stated, as a fact worthy remembrance, that Mr Madison died on the forty-eighth anniversary of the ratification of the Constitution of the United States, by the State of Virginia, June 28th, 1788.

The Eulogy, when published, will undoubtedly be read with interest, as an able and instructive dissertation on the politics of the end of the last, and the early part of the present century, by an eminent actor to a greater or less extent in them.

Mr Adams appeared to us to be quite as vigorous and hale, as we remember to have seen him, during the past six years. He sustained himself with great spirit in the arduous task of speaking to a large and distant audience for such a length of time, and his voice and manner were full as strong and energetic at the close, as when he commenced.

The Transcript speaks of the ranks of the light corps yesterday as being unusually thin.

After having pssed in review and performed various interesting evolutions, the company and many invited guests partook of an excellent collation, at which many just sentiments were offerred, and the utmost good feeling prevailed.

Police Court.—A Pocket Picked.—An old offender, named John Reed, was brought up on suspicion of having stolen Daniel C. King's pocket-book, containing $6100.00, at the Odeon, yesterday. In the course of the delivery of the Eulogy, Mr King had moved in different parts of the Odeon, but the fragments of his pocket-book were found in a spot that he had not visited. As Reed had been in the State Prison, the officers noticed him from time to time, and when they heard of the robbery, Constables Andrews, Hosea and Babbit kept the track of him. As the collection turned off, he pursued an irregular course towards Lindall street, where they arrested him, and searched him in a room. Nothing that belonged to Mr King was found upon him; but two business letters, stolen from the hat of Mr A. R. Holden, of the firm of Hancock, Holden & Adams. He said that he had picked the letters up in a privy near the Odeon, but could not exactly tell where. There was no doubt, from Mr Holden's testimony, but that the letters were stolen while he was sitting with his hat off in the 2d tier. Reed was committed for further examination. We have no room to-day for a long preachment upon the incorrigible imprudence of carrying six thousand dollars into an assembly of three thousand persons!

Municipal.—At a meeting of the Mayor and Aldermen on Monday afternoon—

The petition of sundry persons, that side-walks may be laid in Blackstone street, was laid on the table.

The petition of sundry persons, that an old wooden building in Sun Court street may be removed, was referred to Aldermen Lewis, Gurney and Hunting.

Ordered, That the sum of $7500 be added to the appropriation for the erection, rent and repairs of Engine houses, and that the said amount be withdrawn from the appropriation for the purchase and erection of buildings for primary schools.

Ordered, That $20,000 be added to the reserved fund, to replace the amount drawn out for the completion of the new fence—and that the City Treasurer be authorised, under direction of the committee of finance, to borrow the above sum.

Ordered, That the sum of $7000 be added to appropriation for paving and re-paving the streets—and that the same be withdrawn from the reserved fund.

Libel.—An action was tried this day in the Circuit Court, in which the Reverend Andrew Stark, of the Associate Church in this city, was plaintiff, and the Rev. Chauncey Webster, of Albany, defendant. The libel was contained in a pamphlet published at Albany, entitled "An exhibition of some of the dishonorable means used to bring into contempt the peculiar principles of the Associate Church"—the Defendant made no defence, let judgement go by default. Verdict for the Plaintiff $400, and 6 cents costs.—N. Y. J. Com.

Unfortunate Accident.—One of the hostlers connected with the Paterson and Jersey City Rail Road, met with an unfortunate accident this morning, by jumping from one of the cars whilst in motion. He was run over by another car passing in an opposite direction, and had both of his feet taken off just above the ankle. This is another instance of the folly of heedlessly jumping from the cars when in motion. Accidents of the kind daily occur, yet people will not be warned by the madness of others.

Case of Benj. Rathbun.—The Buffalo Com. Advertiser of Thursday last says—"A motion was made in Court this morning, by Mr Rathbun's foreign creditors, through his counsel, that he be admitted to bail. ☞ Mr EDITOR:—Will you allow me to invite the attention of the discerning public to a system of Writing which has of late become so gradually popular in our city—I mean the system as taught by MR BADGER. I will acknowledge for one my skepticism on the subject (although backed as he is by the scientific) until occular demonstration convinced me of the utility and success of his endeavors in this all important art. Nor was I fully satisfied of the extent to which he has carried his system until I placed under his charge, a son and daughter, 10 and 12 years of age, one of whom, literally unable even to hold a pen in its proper position, has, in the short space of a few days, become so forward in the art of chirography as actually to stand the test of critical examination; she has (by what system I care not) in this short-space of time become a singular proficient in this very important branch of education. Mr B. has succeeded at least in this instance, incredible as it may seem, in diverting a crooked, unmeaning and shapeless hand, to a straight, pleasing, and fanciful style of writing. In fine, if, as has been stated by the opposers of Mr Badger, "he some way or other, stole from Mr Bristow his style of instruction," he is certainly the most apt chirographer on record, to thus have become master of, and be able to impart to his pupils, in so short a time, what Mr Bristow claims to have "cost him years of study."

REVIEW OF THE BOSTON MARKET

FOR THE WEEK ENDING TUESDAY, SEPT. 27.

ASHES—There is but little variation in the rates at which actual sales have been made since our last, but in consequence of an advance in the New York market, there is a better feeling about this article, and holders generally are looking for better prices.

BEANS—Sales by auction of 400 bags foreign white, from Marseilles, at 1.80 a 2 00 pr bush.

BARILLA—This article is getting scarce, as there have been no recent importations, and we have no operations to report.

CANDLES—Sales at the same rates as before reported—say 34 a 35c for Sperm, and 12½ for Mould.

COAL—Sales of a cargo 450 chaldrons from Bristol, Eng., at 10.75 a 11.00, 6 ms—the cargo of bark Pearl, from Sunderland, 300 chal, New Castle, at 11.25—Sidney at 8,50 a 9.00—Bridgeport at 8 50, and by auction, 50 chal NewCastle at 12 00 a 13.25 pr chal. Prices of Anthracite by the cargo have advanced—the retail price remaining at 10.00 pr ton.

COFFEE—The sales since our last embrace about 2500 bags, a large proportion to go out of the market, at 11⅞ a 11¾c for St Domingo, 13½ a 14½ for green and brown Java, and 10¾ for Sumatra. Auction sales of 30 bags Padang at 10⅝c, 4 ms, and 65 bags Porto Cabello at 12c cash.

CORN MEAL—Sales best quality in small lots at 5.25 pr bbl.

COTTON—The demand is still limited, and confined to the supply of the wants of manufacturers, who take small parcels fine qualities at about the highest range of our quotations.

COPPER—Recent advices of an advance in prices of Sheathing in England, have induced holders here to put their price at 29 a 30c, and they have made sales at the former rate. Sales of an importation South American Pig at about 21½c pr lb.

DUCK—There is but a limited demand for heavy Sail Cloth, and transactions have mostly been confined to lots taken for ships' use. Some descriptions have been taken to a moderate extent for the New York market at former reported rates.

DYE STUFFS—The demand for Indigo continues animated, and the sales have been large, probably exceeding 100 chests Bengal, at a range from 1.55 a 1.65 pr lb. We learn of nothing doing in Dye Woods this week.

DRUGS—Very few sales, and no changes in prices. About 200 cases roll Brimstone taken at 2⅝c pr lb, 9 ms—Gum Shellac, ordinary, at 25c, and Liquorice Paste at 13c pr lb. Otto of Rose has a tendency upwards.

FISH—Cod fully sustains the rates reported last week.—Sales, to a fair extent, at 3.00 a 3 25 for Bank, and 3.00 a 3.12½ for Bay. Hake stands better—some sales have reached as high as 2.12½, and Haddock 1.50 pr qtl. Mackerel come to market slowly, and the demand being quite animated, prices have advanced. Sales of No 1 at 9.12½ a 9.25, No 2 at 8.12½ a 8.25, and No 3 at 5.50 per bbl. A sale of 500 bbls No 3, separate, has been made at 6.00, cash. A few bbls No 1 Salmon sold at 18.50 per bbl.

FLOUR—This article stands nearly the same as at the time of our last report. The business done has been unusually small. The middle of last week the market was quite depressed, but since more favorable accounts have been received from New York, and the holders have become more firm. The sales of Genessee have ranged from 9.50 a 9.87½, cash. Sales Southern have been almost entirely in small parcels from store, and prices have generally equalled our highest quotations.

FRUIT—The stock of Raisins, of an inferior quality, is rather large, and the dealers buying only in a small way, prices are depressed. Sales Zante Corrants at 10 a 10½c, and by auction, 100 bags Castana Nuts at 4½c per lb.

GRAIN—The arrivals of Corn have been rather large, and the demand being less animated, the extreme prices of last week have not been supported. Sales of round, in lots, from vessels, at 1.20 a 1.25; prime yellow flat at 1.11 a 1.15; mixed white and yellow at 1.11, and white at 1.08 a 1.10 per bushel. A cargo white, of inferior quality, sold at 1.00. Oats are less plenty and prices advancing—sales of Southern at 54 a 56, and Northern at 64 a 66c per bush. A little Rye has brought about our highest quotations.

HEMP—Demand limited, and the market is heavy—the only sales clean that have come to our knowledge have been at $190 per ton.

HIDES—The importations since our last have been large, but are mostly of Calafornia. The only sales we hear of are 1000 dry Batavia at 10½c; 60 bales Calcutta Cowhides at quoted rates; 30 do Buffalo at 8 a 9c per lb, and by auction 23 bales green salted Patna Cowhides at 77 a 90c each; 24 bales dry do do at 63 a 65c; 7 bales dry Hoscolly at 45c; 5 bales green do at 54 a 59c; 8 bales mixed green a 79 a 85c; 2 bales green Mundinapore at 73c, and 7 bales Buffaloat 7 a 8½c per lb, 6 mos.
